Something Special this way Comes...

There is something in K77 for every knitter! There are ponchos (this season's must-knit), caps and shawls, and one category-challenged sock-scarf. There are traditional Aran and argyles, for women and men, and bugs for kids—the adorable kind.

You may have seen these faces at Vote on the Cover under the Knitter's tab: Gold Rush by Sally Melville (page 58), Victorian Ruby by Jane Sowerby (page 76), and Snowdrift Aran by Heather Lodinski (page 84). Check again next season for cover choices for Knitter's Spring 2005.

A while back, a friend in our knit group was making a multicolor project in pink, lavender, coral, and peach. From where I was sitting, I couldn't tell what it was, but it was beautiful. When I walked over to admire it, she began to panic. She was knitting one of my designs and was stumped. She had been struggling with picking up stitches and couldn't get it right. I sat down and suggested that she pick up according to the stitch-to-row ratio of her fabric. This little lesson took all of 3 minutes, and she proceeded with her project, picking up the stitches like a pro. I reminded her that I was there to help.

Another night one of our new knitters began a baby sweater in medium-weight yarn and size 5.5 mm (US 9) needles. Not a problem until she asked for direction. She was using a pattern for fine-weight yarns, and the little sweater would fit a 6-year-old if she were to continue on her own.

I explained that she was not going to get the result she wanted—the weight of the yarn and the size of the needles were not those prescribed in the pattern. She would have to alter the numbers. It took a little while to convince her that a swatch was necessary before she proceeded. When I finally asked, “Would you serve a new recipe to guests without tasting it first?” she got it. We then reworked the numbers for the heavier yarn. She now has a lovely baby girl and a sweater that fits.

People learn in different ways; in both of these situations, hands-on experience was the best teacher, and learning from mistakes is part of that. That's what our knit group was started for—community spirit—where knitters with different skills could come together, share their expertise, and help one another.

Recently, I was asked again for help with a pattern. As the knitter pulled out the pattern, I realized the lesson was not the one sought, nor one that I should have to teach. Yet, I had to do it.

The pattern was a computer scan of a popular pattern from my friend's company. The knitter admitted that it was scanned and given to her by a fellow knitter, then rationalized it with, “No one around here sells the patterns,” followed by, “I don't know where to buy one, and probably never would have, anyway.” Yet she was knitting it!

I responded, “I wouldn't know where to buy your watch; I like it, and I want it, but that doesn't mean I can take it.”

I was asked to clarify an instruction and instead had to discuss the morality of copyright protection. She and her kind benefactor (I saw them both as accomplices) had virtually picked my friend's pocket, someone who relies on the proceeds from those patterns to survive. They know how I feel, and although that might not prevent repeat abuse, it won't happen on my watch.

Even without a face behind the pattern company, I would have pointed out the injustice of their actions; otherwise, I would be condoning them. And although I am not sworn to “protect and serve,” it is my duty to represent the industry even if I come off looking like a jerk to some people (you don't win points for being a wimp, either). This is a lesson I had to learn. And life lessons are not always pleasant. But learning them makes it clear what we need to do and makes it easier to do it. In protecting one friend, I may have lost another.

But no matter what, it is not generous to give something if it is not yours to give. It's not OK to accept a gift if it is stolen, not purchased. And giving help to someone who is knitting from a contraband copy of a pattern makes you an accomplice as well.

Take care and have a wonderful winter!

In This Issue

With the completion of Millennium Park in downtown Chicago, we knew there would be plenty of light, ambience, and scenery to shoot our Winter issue.

We have always enjoyed the bustle and electricity of the Windy City. This time we were treated to a beautiful day, shooting along the Chase Promenade, Jay Pritzker Pavilion, and SBC Plaza. Surrounding us were wonders of our modern world—a visual feast of simple shapes with spectacular presence thanks to the artists, craftspeople, and designers who created this 24.5-acre, $400 million masterpiece of landscaping and sculpture.

Many of the projects in our issue are simple shapes made spectacular by the inventive construction and stitchwork of creative knit designers. The choice of materials takes many of the pieces up a notch, and each design is truly something special.

We offer hats and scarves that employ clever techniques. The pick-up diamond hats are worked in sections—portable projects to practice your skills. Try other techniques: short rows, Victorian lace, and afterthought heels along the length of a scarf—and pick yarns you might not have used before for additional flair. Even a mock-fur stole in simple stockinette and flashy eyelash combine for an opulent effect.

Knitters who are ready to move from scarves to more challenging projects might try a cardigan. The family set is offered in a range of yarns to fit any budget. The stitch pattern is easily memorized, the shaping is simple, and there are no pick-ups or ribbings to deal with. Seam the pieces together, add buttons, and off you go. For a totally different look, make a second version with the reverse side of the fabric showing. This stitch pattern would make a great scarf fabric, too, for a cozy ensemble.

Our cover poncho is a spectacular practice in simplicity—eight simple garter-stitch scarves combine into the traditional garment. Exquisite yarns are the secret.

Evening glamor is what you have in mind, try an evening bag made of rayon cord. Practical and lovely, the hand-dyed colors, fancy stitch, and bead accents make it special.

Beautiful clothes make us feel great, and we've got some evening beauties just for you. These tops are spectacularly simple, with very little shaping and finishing.

One-shoulder silhouettes in peacock-blue fur, or a metallic mélange of silver, pewter, gold, and copper with special detailing will take you from cocktails to a rock concert. Our coral and purple camisole combines two novelty yarns in a slip-stitch pattern that is fun to knit. Make a ribbed tank in ribbon, and trim it with lush imitation fur. Work two rectangles with a few rows of decorative stitches in a contrasting yarn, and seam them into an evening top with a bit more coverage.

Remember, these tops will be ready for action as the temperatures climb and will have added life throughout the following seasons and years. The yarn requirements are practical for the budget-minded as there are no sleeves to make.

Dressing little ones will be a breeze when you choose bug cardigans and hats that celebrate the wonders of nature. The cheerful colors will make any parent smile.

A stark winter palette needn't affect your knitting. A lush green angora-blend pullover with cable accents that enhance the shaping, a rose-colored pullover that mimics a jacket, or a gray jacket with taffy tones all carry the reminders of springtime hues. The intarsia kimono of flowers and swirls offers more challenging knitting with thrilling results.

And let's not forget the guys: Father's Cardigan looks great in a bulky yarn and works as a jacket in many climates. Or, choose a ribbed vest or an argyle and rib pullover that adds color to his wardrobe.

Beauty is where you find it—in nature, a park, fabulous yarns, or a simple knit design. You'll find something special here thanks to our talented designers. We also thank the City of Chicago, Elite Models, and our on-location photo assistant, David Ettinger.

WhereInTheWorld/Letters

Our mailbox is always full of interesting tidbits: letters, pictures, ideas, and suggestions for making things better for our readers. Keep the letters coming!

I have recently returned to the art of knitting, learning from my immigrant mother when I was a youngster in rural Ohio.

Our world is a place of wonder and I feel fortunate to have fulfilled my childhood dream of traveling to Australia. We visited Steve Irwin's Australia Zoo and the magnificent Sydney Opera House. Petting koalas and kangaroos, laughing with kookaburras, and retracing the humorous patchwork of a platypus are images that tickle my memory while I hum strains from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and knit back here at home.

Kayaking in Mazatlan, Mexico, with my spring 2004 Knitter's! My husband and I took a 10-day cruise in March and I knit at sea on the ship decks and in port on the beautiful beaches. Other tourists were amazed at the self-patterning sock yarns I was using. What a luxury to simply eat, sleep, and knit!

When I went to Tel Aviv this summer, I brought my knitting. I also brought an old issue of Knitter's because I am knitting my second Aran Afghan. My husband chose to take the photo in front of a mosque across the street from the beach.

On my trip to the People's Republic of China in March, I took my Spring 2003 Knitter's. I bought pattern books with charts (since I do not read Chinese), a nifty set of 11 circular needles in a compact case, and plenty of merino yarn. Next trip, I will pack fewer clothes, and buy more yarn to bring home.

While planning our trip to England, I found a tourist attraction on the internet called The Big Sheep in Bideford, in northwest Devon. Being an avid knitter and yarn shop owner (Georgetown Yarn and Crafts in Georgetown, Ontario, Canada), I enjoy checking out sheep-themed items and events. The Big Sheep is a children's amusement park—my husband and I were the only couple there without children.

The highlight of the day was the sheep races, in which six sheep with names such as Woolly Jumper and Little Pufflower raced along a winding track, each with its own stuffed jockey in its own handknit sweater. Enclosed are three pictures for your amusement.

During the trip of over 4000 kilometers we visited an old mill still in production today, and lots of sheared sheep, but very few yarn shops. The York Castle Museum exhibited knitting and knotting displays.

I, of course, took my knitting but did very little while in the car, as I was the navigator, but most evenings were full with my favorite hobby—knitting.

Highlights from Stitches East

It was an exciting time in Atlantic City this year. We had visiting authors, TV celebrities, and international designers. There were nearly 1200 students registered to take classes from 36 instructors. The free learn to knit classes, sponsored by Lion Brand Yarns and Knitter's, taught 125 new knitters the joy of knitting. No matter where you looked, there were people knitting. Oohs and aahs were heard everywhere. We hope you were there with us to take it all in; if not, here is a small sampling of what took place and we look forward to seeing you at a Stitches event next year!

To see more of the happenings at Stitches East 2004, go to www.knittinguniverse.com and click on Live from Stitches.

Knitter of the Year

Lion Brand Yarns and Knitter's Magazine are proud to announce the winner of this year's Knitter of the Year award.

Bonnie Hogerman, founder of Care Wear Volunteers, was announced as the award winner at Stitches East in Atlantic City, New Jersey, on October 9, 2004.

Care Wear is a nationwide group of volunteers who provide essential items to patients in hospitals throughout the United States.

Mrs. Hogerman started the program to fulfill a desire to perform a public service. She contacted Children's National Medical Center in Washington, DC, and found that it needed items for preemies and full-term babies in the Specific Care Unit.

Bonnie found that her biggest challenge was finding patterns that would fit a preemie. She downsized a pattern she had and sent it to hospital staff for approval, and they asked that she make it smaller. She knit an even smaller one, and again was asked to knit a smaller one—with the directive that she buy a lime and make a hat for it, that is the size that a preemie wears.

She committed to knit one hat a day, thinking 30 per month was a task she could accomplish. The contact at the hospital informed her that the hospital dealt with 75-125 cases per month. They also could use mittens and booties.

Her local paper, The Frederick News Post, ran a small article and 150 volunteers came forward. A while later The Washington Post ran a 7-line feature asking for volunteers and 300 more joined the ranks. In November 1993, Family Circle ran a feature and 3000 people responded. As the list of volunteers grew, so did the request for additional items for full-term babies, tots, teens, and even adults. Every request was fulfilled, thanks to word of mouth, newspaper and magazine articles, and the volunteers.

Bonnie Hogerman, Knitter of the Year 2004

They do not just knit, they offer crochet and sewn items. Flannel kimonos are made with Velcro at the seams so a child that is hooked up with the multitude of tubes and wires can be changed with as little disruption as possible. The function of keeping the baby warm, and easing physical stress is important, adding humanity and emotional comfort to parents and families as well.

When requests for burial gowns came, Bonnie realized, "While we celebrate life and survival, sometimes we have to honor and mourn the death of a child."

Bonnie doesn't know the recipients of these items. Yet she often gets letters of thanks and comments forwarded from hospital staff members.

She quotes one mother in mourning, "This is the wedding dress my daughter would never get to wear."

Bonnie has made a positive difference in many lives, with items of warmth and comfort thanks to Care Wear and its volunteers. She is pleased to be productive and has helped others realize that productivity has its rewards. We are pleased to honor her and everyone who helps others. □

Module Magic

Creative Projects to Knit 1 Block at a Time, Ginger Lutens, XXX Books, 122 pages, softcover, 9½" x 10", 2004, $19.95
Available on StitchesMarket.com

Knitting in small units is not new—seasoned knitters will remember the mini-trends from Europe that Patchwork Knitting (Horst Schultz) and Domino Knitting (Vivian Hoxbro) spawned. This latest offering by well-known teacher and designer Ginger Lutens brings unique style and sensibility to this fun and creative method of knitting.

The idea behind modular knitting is to create a garment (or other item) by knitting several small shapes and joining them together. Most often, these are joined as they are knit, leaving little finishing work. Since the units are small, this type of knitting lends itself well to the liberal use of color, especially handpainted or variegated yarns.

This book is organized into chapters by shape: Squares & Rectangles, Right Triangles, Equilateral & Other Triangles, Mitred Squares, Miters & Beyond, Stunning Strips, Patchwork, and Bias Knitting. Each shape is discussed in detail with variations, swatches, tips, and many examples. Lutens' experience as a teacher shows here as her explanations are clear, readable, and thorough. The designer comes through as she presents many design ideas with swatches, sketches, and suggestions.

Each chapter includes a few projects (for a total of 23) that utilize the shapes. Most of the garments are stunning, the kind that fill the knitter with a sense of accomplishment. Since complete instructions are given, you don't have to master both techniques (knitting and designing, as in Patchwork Knitting) to create a masterpiece. The garments are mostly sweaters and vests, plus a few accessories, and they look very wearable. The size range is generally S-XL, but Lutens does a good job of explaining how to size up or down by altering the size or number of modules.

Although the book is not geared toward beginners, it does provide helpful sections on techniques such as picking up stitches, decreasing, and joining that are key to mastering this style of knitting. Yarn, needle, and size information is clear and helpful. Full schematics that show the layout of the units are provided, as well as reproducible graph papers for designing your own modular creations.

Having knit and designed in this style, I can say that modular knitting is fun and rewarding. It is motivating to complete the small units (compared to long rows or rounds) and it really shows off handpainted yarn to its best advantage.

Module Magic offers the best of both worlds for a knitting book—an excellent and definitive technique book with many extraordinary designs. I won't think twice about adding this to my knitting library—and it's well priced to boot!

Knits from the Heart

Quick Projects for Generous Giving, Kristin Spurland, Martingale & Company, 79 pages, softcover, 8 1/2" x 11", 2004, $22.95

This collection of 17 knitted projects was designed with giving in mind. The projects are easy to knit and most are quick to complete. The samples are all created in good-quality but plain yarns, relying on their simplicity and careful design for their appeal.

The projects include 4 hats, 3 blankets, 3 scarves, booties, socks, mittens, a purse, a Christmas stocking, a felted puppet, and a felted cat bed. Several of the projects are sized as baby items—since babies, whether related to the knitter or not, are always good inspiration to pick up the needles.

Skill level ranges from beginner (a patchwork blanket made of garter stitch strips) to intermediate (an earflap hat with a fairisle band and duplicate stitch); most of the projects are appropriate for an advanced beginner. The colorwork most often involves stripes, which are simple but effective.

All in all, this book presents a pleasant collection of simple projects that are perfect for the knitter who does not want (or cannot do) complicated cables and colorwork or intricate stitch patterns and shaping, but would still like to create some lovely items. In keeping with the idea of generous giving, the author also provides contact information for 11 charitable organizations that accept knitted donations.

The Knitter's Handy Book of Sweater Patterns

Basic Designs in Multiple Sizes and Gauges, Ann Budd, Interweave Press, 218 pages, hardcover, 8" x 9 1/2", 2004, $26.95
Available on StitchesMarket.com

Six styles, 15 sizes, 5 gauges—that's 450 patterns in one book! When you factor in neckline variations, ribbing choices, etc., the options are practically endless.

This follow-up book to the popular The Knitter's Handy Book of Patterns (2002) focuses on sweaters and provides complete instructions for 6 basic styles: drop shoulder, modified drop shoulder, set-in sleeve, saddle shoulder, raglan, and seamless yoke. The patterns are sized for 26"-54" finished circumference and are given for 5 gauges (3–7 stitches per inch). Yardage estimates are included as well.

Budd has created schematics for the various styles and sizes, and crunched the numbers to generate the patterns. This makes the perfect starting point for knitters who wish to create a unique sweater and would like to choose colors, stitches, necklines, and edgings without worrying over the fit of the armhole.

In addition to all of the schematics and charts of numbers, there are suggestions and explanations for many detail variations and lots of tips for successful knitting as well as a handy knitting glossary of techniques. The book has a tie-flat, internal spiral binding, a built-in elastic bookmark, and a convenient storage pocket—how thoughtful

The patterns are road-tested with 18 sweater designs that showcase various design options. Be warned that the instructions for these designs are only given in one size—but if you understand the concept of the book, you should be able to easily adapt the patterns.

For sweater knitters who would like to ease into design or who just can't find the perfect basic pattern for a wonderful yarn, this book will be an invaluable resource. Basic sweater styles really don't change that much; this book is a great investment for many years of sweater knitting.

Scarf Style

Pam Allen, Interview Press, 152 pages, softcover, 8½" x 9", 2004, $21.95
Available on StitchesMarket.com

Lately, "scarf knitting" has come to mean garter stitch rectangles made of colorful novelty yarns. They are easy and fast, but are not much of a challenge and can be a bit boring to knit. Enter Pam Allen with Scarf Style! This collection of 31 styles from some of the most creative and inventive knitwear designers is anything but boring.

If you are familiar with the work of the designers in this book, you may recognize their contributions as representative of their signature styles. There are reversible cables, lacy patterns, intarsia, beads, innovative shapes, and one multicolored fold de force that can only be described as art-to-wear. Most of the scarves are knit, a few are crochet. Skill level ranges from advanced beginner to experienced.

In addition to the scarf designs, there is a chapter on designing your own scarf with helpful hints and suggestions (and a few bonus patterns), and an illustrated glossary of terms and techniques.

My only quibble with this book is that many of the photographs are shot with "fuzzy" focus—this may be 'arty' but it's really out of place in a knitting book. Although the shots are well framed, many details are obscured.

Scarves and wraps are fun to design and knit—there are no worries about flattering fit or shaping for armholes, and usually little to no finishing. For some fun and inspiring knitting, this collection is definitely worth a look.

Hot Knits

30 Cool, Fun Designs to Knit and Wear, Melissa Leapman, Watson-Guptill Publications, 128 pages, softcover, 8½" x 11", 2004, $19.95

This is a collection of women's sweaters mostly in the XS to XL size range. There are sweaters for all seasons, plus a dress and a coat—however, the "Hot" in the title seems to describe the photos rather than the designs.

Melissa Leapman, though prolific, does not seem to have embraced a signature style. This is not a bad thing; her collection shows a lot of versatility. There are lots of shapes and styles: tanks, cardigans, pullovers, cropped sweaters, tunics, and more. She does not skimp on details—no bulky dropped shoulders here. Colorwork, lace, and cables dress up basic shapes very effectively.

I think the title and positioning of this book are misleading. Words such as "sexy," "chic," and "sizzling" don't really describe most of the designs in this book. Although a few of the designs fit the bill, most notably the ribbed column dress, several of the sweaters are tunic-length or have a fairly conservative look to them. Many of the designs are very wearable with excellent details and well-executed shaping.

Oddly, it seems that someone decided to make the book sexier through the photographs. The models often have a "come hither" look to them and show lots of skin. One fairly conservative, open cardigan is shown with no shirt on underneath—the sweater is not "hot," but the photo is. The cover sweater, a cropped swing top, is never completely shown, except in a photo where the model is posed in such a way that normal bodies may never find themselves. Lots of lip gloss, half-opened mouths, closed eyes, and focus on breasts do not change the sweaters—several of them would be right at home at a P.T.A. meeting.

Yet, as this is a pattern collection from an established designer, I would recommend a look if you are interested in women's sweaters. If you are a "fashionista" you may be disappointed; however, if you want a versatile collection of women's knits, you may be pleasantly surprised.

Donna Kooler's Encyclopedia of Knitting
Leisure Arts, 240 pages, softcover, 8 1/2" x 9", 2004, $24.95

This book is the third in a series from Leisure Arts—the first two being about needlework and crochet, respectively. You may not recognize the author's name from the knitting world but you will recognize some of the names of the designers who contributed to this book—Lily Chin, Bev Galeskas, and Nicky Epstein.

This book has an ambitious scope and it does cover a lot of material—the history of knitting, knitting basics, more advanced techniques, 22 projects, a 150 stitch-pattern gallery.

The best part is the project section comprising 22 designs. Bev Galeskas contributed three felted items (a hat, some sheep, and Mary Jane booties), Lily Chin designed a lovely reversible rib/cable wrap, and Nicky Epstein created a few projects with her signature knitted embellishments. There are also some projects from Philosopher's Wool (known for their rainbow-hued fairisle), an entrelac wrap, a dog sweater, fairisle socks, and a few beaded projects—and more.

To note, there are a few inconsistencies that make this book seem a little out of step with the rest of the knitting world. For example, long-tail cast-on is called finger cast-on, the make 1 increase is called a pick-up increase (although referred to as M in abbreviation tables), and the symbols used in the stitch pattern gallery are sometimes inconsistent with those used by other publications. The information is correct; however, if you are trying to look up long-tail cast-on, you won't find it.

The book is filled with photographs and illustrations although there are a few miscues here as well. For example, some of the lesser-known knitting gadgets in the photos are never referenced in the text, and some of the more complicated techniques, such as cabling and grafting, are not fully illustrated. I was intrigued by the "hand-pampering" "blended" knitting style (I knit a lot, my hands get tired!), but found the illustrations and instructions somewhat lacking.

The stitch gallery with its own index is a nice touch, but 150 is a rather small number of stitch patterns for a stitch dictionary. If you are serious about designing with stitch patterns, there are several books with much more comprehensive collections.

Overall, this book does contain a lot of useful information and several of the patterns are excellent (the Bev Galeskas felted patterns alone usually sell for about half the retail price of this book). However, I think it is a little over-reaching to use the words "complete" and "authoritative" (from the back cover) to describe this book. As a comprehensive reference, it has a few opportunity areas. But for the price (I have already seen it much discounted from the cover price), it is much more economical than buying separate books on the various topics. ☐

Animaglione; dall'animal alla maglia, dalla maglia all'animale
(Animal sweaters; from the animal to the knit, from the knit to the animal)

Imagine the possibilities

Animals dressed in knits, knits designed with an animal influence. As we walk through the displays of the Pitti Imagine Filati 2005-2006 Fall and Winter show in Florence, Italy, we see a riot of color and fabulous textures. Everything from the finest hosiery to textures that imitate the animal kingdom: a fabric that mimics the armor of the armadillo, another that flutters with the vibrant colors of a delicate butterfly. Everywhere we looked the talent of the designers was brilliantly obvious. The textures and colors of the fabrics, whether created by the texture of the yarn or by creative stitch patterns, made for an idea-inspiring experience! I came away with a sketchpad full of bits and pieces of future designs.

It was exciting to see the trends on display in living color, touching the textures and seeing the stitchwork up close. We came away re-energized and excited about the new season. Hang on—it's going to be a wild adventure! (1)

Perri Klass Learning To Throw

... up until last summer, I would say that the principal connection between my knitting and my son was that I would sit in the bleachers and knit during the innings he didn't play.

My son, who is nine, had shown no interest in learning to knit. And, to tell the truth, I hadn't pushed it at all—Anatol is a boy of reasonably wide-ranging interests, and his literary tastes have progressed nicely from Captain Underpants to Harry Potter, but for the last couple of years, his main focus has been baseball, with a side emphasis on baseball, and, oh yes, did I mention that he thinks about baseball a lot. So we talk about baseball, and we listen to Red Sox games, and sometimes we go to Red Sox games, and often we go to little league games, or little league all-star games, or summer little league baseball games, and I certainly bring my knitting along. But up until last summer, I would say that the principal connection between my knitting and my son was that I would sit in the bleachers and knit during the innings he didn't play. Oh, and at one point, during a championship game, his team was losing, and I was tense, so I started knitting, and his team caught up, and then, because I am a logical, rational woman of science, I was worried that if I stopped knitting, his team would fall behind again, so I had to knit through the last out without breaking my pace, while watching the game intently and, of course, praying. Call it magical thinking multi-tasking.

Anyway, Anatol had never mentioned learning to knit, and I had never suggested it. I taught his older sister how, years ago, and it didn't really take. And then one beautiful summer day, I dragged Anatol along with me to the Knit-Out on the Boston Common, and his eyes were opened. The Common was green in the sun, and the Boston skyline sparkled at the perimeter—the golden dome of the State House, the hotels and small city buildings of the Back Bay, the higher silhouettes of the Prudential Center and the John Hancock Tower a little further away. And there on the Common were the knitters, on folding chairs around the bandshell, or spread out on shady patches of grass.

Anatol was reasonably patient about the outing. I pointed out, somewhat in jest, that there was a learn-to-knit station where people would be glad to teach him, and he grinned and said, no thanks. If you learn to knit, I might write a column about you, I said, still teasing, and he said, more emphatically, no thanks! He tagged along through the market tent as I admired luxury yarns and fingered display garments, but he got kind of restless and we went back outside. He sat with me under a tree, reading a science fiction novel, while I worked away on the handles for a bag that I am someday, with god's help, going to complete and felt. We went up closer to watch the fashion show, and he was particularly taken by a dog outfit, modeled, naturally, by the dog. Then we found our place in the shade again, and I worked on my bag handles, and occasionally someone came along who knew me from the hospital, or the knitting guild, or some other side of life. Anatol looked around at all the knitters, watched as passers-by stopped to comment on one another's projects, or sweaters, or shawls. Thanks for coming with me today, I told him, meaning to acknowledge that sometimes a nine-year-old gets schlepped around to suit a parent's convenience and schedule, and that he was being a good-natured good sport. [Of course, on balance, a nine-year-old's schedule schleps a parent around quite a bit—just think of all those baseball games—but that goes with the territory.] He smiled graciously and said oh, that's okay, so I seized my opportunity and asked whether he'd be willing to allow me a little more time in the exhibitors' tent—there were an awful lot of booths I hadn't visited yet.

He thought about it. Then he asked whether we could go back and check out that learn-to-knit station—and would they really be able to teach him, just like that? So I stuffed my needles and my bag handles back into my knitting bag, grabbed my son's hand, and hurried him across the grass. A kind woman at the learn-to-knit table provided him with some metal needles and a ball of green yarn, and started trying to show him how. I asked her to show him how to knit continental style. That's how I knit—I hold the yarn in my left hand—and I have never really succeeded in understanding how the other kind of knitting works. I guess I learned too young, one set way of knitting imprinting my brain beyond retrieval, because I have tried on many different occasions to master the technique of "throwing" the yarn with the right hand, but it somehow doesn't make sense to me, and I get all mixed up.

In fact, I get a little mixed up if I even think too carefully about what my hands are doing when I knit the way I know how—it's why I preferred not to teach my son myself. There are people, it seems to me, who can explain knitting far more cogently and coherently than I can, and I was sure it would be easier for Anatol to learn from an experienced teacher. But I did want her to teach him continental style, so I would be able to help him along.

She was a good and patient teacher, but it was hot there in the sun, and I could see that it wasn't coming easily to Anatol, and that he felt a little exposed and on the spot. In a minute, I suspected, he would hand back the yarn and the needles, say a polite thank you, and that would be that. So I suggested that the two of us go back to our comfortable shady patch and work on it there—or not, as he liked. And back in the shade, with no audience, I quickly proved to be completely incompetent as a teacher. I just could not explain to him what my left hand was doing—how it controlled the yarn, measured out the tension, fed the yarn into stitch after stitch. I kept taking the needles, demonstrating, offering inarticulate instructions, handing back the needles, watching him struggle, shaking my head.

And then along came someone I know from another side of my life—a woman who organizes continuing medical education conferences for the medical school where I work. She asked Anatol whether he was learning to knit, and I said that I was trying—and failing—to teach him. She watched him for a minute, and then offered to help. But she wanted to teach him the other kind of knitting—"You just look like someone who would like to throw the yarn with the right hand," she said to him, seriously. And in about three minutes, she had him knitting. Now, I don't know, of course, whether she had actually achieved some deep and meaningful insight into his eye-hand coordination, his neurocognitive wiring, and his character, or whether she was just a very good teacher, who could have taught him anything at all. I mean, obviously she was a much better teacher than I am, but there was something about the way she watched his hands moving and then made her decision that made me feel that my child had been expertly observed and assessed.

NEW...

from XX BOOKS

And just like that, she taught him how. And it took, in some very profound sense. After all, as someone who has never quite figured out this way of knitting, I would have been completely unable to help him correct any problems with his hand position or his technique—but he hasn't asked me to. He got it, once and for all. He spent the next couple of days working his way through the remnant of green wool that the learn-to-knit lady had given him, working the uneven meandering stitches of a beginner, then evening out a little. I watched, helped with dropped stitches and tangles, and wondered whether the level of interest would outlast the green yarn. He would knit while I read aloud to him at night—we were finishing Mama's Bank Account—and he was quite clearly using the knitting to prolong the reading and thereby delay bedtime. And as he came to the end of the green wool, he began to ask about going to the yarn store and choosing some yarn for himself, so he could make a scarf.

Now, needless to say, I have plenty of yarn in the house. All colors, thicknesses, textures. You want variegated, I've got variegated. You want glitter, I've got glitter. But though sifting through my stash is an important ritual—and, in my case, at least, a fascinating journey into the fantasies and packrat psychopathology of a knitter with a cluttered mind and a cluttered life—it seemed to me that a different ritual was called for here. So we walked to Harvard Square together, and Anatol searched the shelves. He flirted briefly with some dramatically multicolored Kolgu wool, and he looked over some novelty yarns that I thought he might find problematic to handle. But he settled, rather definitively, on some thick, soft Rowan wool, red and black, that knits up into a sort of plaid effect. Definitely masculine, in a lumberjack flannel shirt kind of way. I bought him two balls, and we took our package home and found some nice big wooden needles.

So I still wondered, of course, whether he was really going to stick with it. But he did it, he made the scarf. At first he had a tendency to add stitches, but he made himself count every few rows, and he got steadier and steadier. He worked on it when someone read to him. He worked on it while listening to the Red Sox games, and I wondered whether in the future, he would look at the scarf and hear some combination of my voice reading about an immigrant Norwegian family in San Francisco, and the more exciting voices of Joe Castiglione and Jerry Tripiano calling the ballgame. He worked on it in the car, on a family trip to New Hampshire. And he finished it—a short, soft, garter stitch scarf, quite evenly made, and with only one dropped stitch that I had to pick up at the end—in a week or two. In fact, he decided to stop at the end of the first ball of wool, because then he could use the other one to produce an identical scarf for his father. And he mentioned, maybe two or three or four times, as he worked on the scarf, that he now expected me to write an article about him and about how he can knit.

So what can I say? It warms my heart to see him knitting. I've been surprised and impressed by his willingness to keep working on it, to get better and better at something that didn't come easily at first. I mean, when there's a piece to learn on the piano, he gets better by practicing, naturally, but that involves a fair amount of parental pressure. With knitting, I think it was the pleasure of the task, the pull of the project—and, of course, the chance to fit it into certain corners of his life. In other words, I think he was drawn along by forces I understand, even as he was learning to knit in a style I can't quite work out. And of course I have no way of knowing whether he'll persist—whether the second scarf will truly get made, or whether he'll go on from there to any other projects. I have some mild feelings of trepidation about the day he wants to learn to purl—clearly, I'm going to have to find someone who really understands throwing to teach him—but maybe he'll be okay with garter stitch for a while (his grandmothers would probably both like new scarves this winter). But most of all, as I watch him working on identical red-and-black scarf number two, I feel I have learned something about him that I didn't know. I did know that he was capable of persistence and focused attention—I've watched him, after all, throw pitch after pitch after pitch at a strike zone target marked on a fence. Did that have real speed, he'll ask, or did that one curve as it came in? My sense of who he is has something to do with the care and attention he puts into throwing that ball. And now someone has looked at him and seen something else and added to my picture: he's an aspiring pitcher, a righty, working to control the ball, and he's also someone who is naturally inclined to throw the wool with his right hand. ☐

As 2004 comes to a close, and a new year begins, we look forward to holidays, and to gift giving. This is the time of year when people want to look and feel special while celebrating with friends and family. Whether you are knitting for yourself or others, it is a wonderful time to find that extra-special something to make. Indulge your senses with fiber, color, and the soothing rhythm of your knitting, accompanied by the sights, sounds, and scents of the season. Here are a few ideas to enhance your efforts and to add pizzazz to your special holiday knits.

Bag Construction

Plastic canvas used in stitchery is perfect for firm bag bottoms, and side reinforcement as well. Encase the pieces of plastic canvas in fabric and tack them down for a durable and stable tote.

Quick Knitting for Kids

By Annie Modesitt

I do a lot of knitting add-on stuff for the kids. I have cut off outgrown sweaters at the sleeves and waist, picked up stitches along the cut-off edges, and knit (using an acrylic/wool blend) a nice cabled portion at the bottom to make a quasi-home-made and feltable outerwear garment.

For my daughter, I often add a knitted border to the jumpers she's outgrown (she's getting taller and thinner and can still wear the dresses she wore 2 years ago, but they're up to her hips!). My greatest accomplishment in this field: I took her camp T-shirt from last year and picked up and knit a lace/pleated skirt onto the bottom in matching washable cotton/rayon yarn. She HATES to wear pants, and she's supposed to wear her camp shirt at least once a week for field trips, so this was a way around the problem for her!

She did have One pair of jeans that—for whatever reason—she loved and WOULD wear when I asked her (convenient on freezing winter days!). When she outgrew them I knitted little beaded borders at the bottom and we got another year of wear out of them!

Adding Beads

By Kathie Power-Johnson

No need to string beads for every knit project. If you are placing them periodically, why not place as you go?

Use a needle threader to place beads in your knitting. Insert the loop of the threader into a bead, drop a stitch from the needle and pull the stitch through. Return the stitch back on the needle and off you go!

Certainly, the hole must be large enough to pull the stitch through. This prevents fraying the yarn and allows you to add odd-size beads as you choose. Should you need to make the stitch a bit larger for bigger beads, make an extra wrap in the stitch that will be pulled through the bead. Since this is done with a stitch in the previous row, you must do the wrap when making that stitch.

Paillettes (sequins) in knitting

By J. Thomas

Paillette knitting is super simple and a great way to jazz up any knitwear. A paillette is a large (nickel-sized), flat sequin with one big, off-center hole. To include a paillette, slip it onto the tip of the right-hand needle BEFORE you work the next stitch. Work the next stitch in the normal way, pull the paillette over the new stitch and off the needle (much like binding off) and then orient it to the front of the knitting.

You can use any small object that has a big enough hole to fit onto

Embracing crochet

My earliest memory of needlework involves crochet. My great-grandmother, Martha Schmidt, crocheted delicate multicolored edgings on my pillowcases. She also crocheted dollies, soaked them in sugar solution, and created exquisite floral baskets to fill with silk flowers. She died when I was five, and in my maturity, I have inherited a large collection of her beautiful work.

Her daughter, my grandmother, Martha Mueller, taught me to knit. She was proud and later on a little bemused that I used knitting to base a career. All the while, crochet, save the simple chain stitch, remained a mystery to me. I could read crochet directions and do the steps, but the minute I put the hook down, my crochet memory chip short-circuited and I could not remember the simplest process.

Fast forward to my mid thirties. I was the sales manager at Classic Brite Yarns. Like almost everyone else on staff, I designed sweater patterns. Perhaps influenced by Tiber, a French line we distributed, whose designs often utilized crochet accents, or maybe it was the time of moré, I began to use crochet trims on my knits.

Without reference books, I would morph a Tiber edging into something worthy. I would then try to write the pattern. Susan Mills (now the Director of Design at JCA, Inc.) took "chain 3, dip, yarn over, dip, pull through, yarn over, pull through everything" and wrote a functional pattern. She is a genius, and a very patient soul.

When I bought Great Yarns in Raleigh, the crochet skills of the staff were pretty much on par with mine—not so great. We were great knitters, but actually would refer the filet-crochet customers to Shuttles, Needles and Hooks in Cary, the next town over. While we could fashion a simple crochet edging, Carol, the owner, was able to give a crochet lesson or answer a question without batting an eye. To humble knitters like us, she is a master of crochet.

I represented TNNA's Yarn Group at the Craft Yarn Council of America's 2003 annual conference. Buoyed by the success of the Knit Out, Crochet Too events, and the resurgence of knitting, the focus was to now promote crochet. I had met and worked with some of the most active catalysts in our business over the years. Among those attending were Jean Leinhouzer, founder of Leisure Arts, and Rita Weiss, who had managed the American School of Needlework. These two were (and are) powerful voices for crochet.

Rita and Jean co-chaired the crochet sub-committee. During the wrap-up session, Rita commented that the organization's efforts should be targeted toward chain stores, since the independent retailers don't want to deal with crochet.

Boy, that smarted, and I think I even yelped in pseudo pain. Rita had a point. She was right—the independent retailer had every knitting tool at hand, but very few for crochet. Crochet was the forgotten stepchild. And I was as guilty as many of my fellow yarn shop owners.

A few months later, the Crochet Guild of America and crochet designers assured me that crochet was ready to stake its claim in the industry. They, along with Rita and Jean, were committed to making crochet an equal-opportunity skill.

How would that affect my staff, and the store? With our not-so-great crochet skills how would we meet the challenge?

There's always a rainbow. Early this year, Deborah, a crochet customer, mentioned that if we needed to expand the staff, she had time and would love the opportunity. Since the staff needs to eat lunch and have days off, we welcomed her aboard right away. Deb has become our resident crocheter. Working with her, and the ease with which she helps people through the basics, has made many of us feel more comfortable with our latent crochet skills. She instilled more confidence in us and our crochet skills and although our crochet skills are nowhere near our knitting skills, we can definitely assist a little better.

Recently, one Saturday morning on my way to work, I read the headline in the Raleigh News and Observer lying on my driveway. Marcy Smith Rice, the needle arts and craft writer, had a major feature on crochet ponchos and it was guaranteed that we would get calls throughout the day about crochet. A year ago, that column would have brought major fear into my heart, but I remained calm. Although Deb wasn't scheduled to work that day, Margaret and I would survive. I clipped the article, downloaded the referenced pattern and even made up a rudimentary rectangular crochet poncho of my own.

When the ponchos came in, we took care of them. One even helped refresh my single-crochet skills, and from then on, it was smooth sailing. Knitters also came in to try to remember their latent crochet skills. But, no matter which technique was used, ponchos were started that evening. Since then, Deb has come up with other poncho designs to complement what we offer knitters. She worked furiously for a few days so that we now have adult, teen for wannabe, and child versions. While Deb has never met Rita or Jean, she has channeled their vision and (more than) risen to the occasion.

And just in the nick of time. ☐ the tip of the right-hand needle. My art-knitting students from the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, included cut-up drawings with holes punched in them, really big beads with letters on them (to put text in their work), and other objects they had made of clay, polymer clay, papier mâché, or cast paper.

Alternating Cast-on with Novelty Yarns By Sandy Kirby-Gabhart

Handle those pesky knots, slubs, and loops of novelties with the alternating cast-on normally used for ribbing. I used the size needle I was using for my ribbed edge and it worked just fine, but you may need to go up or down a needle size, depending on how tight you cast on. The alternating cast-on edge is exceptionally even, takes care of the problem of odd-sized stitches due to different thicknesses within the yarn, and it blends with any stitch pattern since the nature of the yarn lets the cast-on edge disappear. ☐

So many tips from generous knitters, to make our knitting easier and our projects more enjoyable, are available from Athena. E-mail your tip, trick, technique, or comments to anne@xxr-inc.com.

Knit & Sew 127

WobblyRibs

Abundantly simple, this trio of sweaters will make everyone in the family look great. The stitch pattern is so simple that new knitters will not be daunted, and best of all, the finishing is minimal—just seams, with no picking up stitches or ribbings to make. Another little secret—you could use the reverse side of the fabric as well.

[Rep rows 4 and 5] 5 times more—9 sts. Cut yarn. Place sts on hold. Rep from * 4 times more.

6 Cont decs to shape crown

With RS facing, divide sts from holders evenly over 3 dpns (15 sts on each needle), with the last 2 sts worked in Step 5 at beg of first needle so that decs will line up with those in last row of Step 5. Join C (A) and work as foll: Row 1 [Ssk, k7] 5 times—40 sts. 2 [Ssk, k7] 5 times. Cont to work 1 less k st after ssk every rd until 5 sts rem. Cut yarn and draw through rem sts, tighten and fasten off. □

5-6 Work five increasing triangles between triangle points from Step 4, then continue to shape crown circularly.

4 Work five diamonds between triangle points from Steps 1-3.

3 Work garter band and 1 decreasing triangle between earflaps for back.

2 Work garter band and 2 decreasing triangles between earflaps for front.

Scarf

With 2 strands of yarn, cast on 10 sts, leaving a 10" tail. K 96 rows (48 ridges). Bind off, leaving a 10" tail.

Poncho

Make 8 scarves, using the diagrams (at right) to determine which yarns to use for each scarf.

Finishing

With crochet hook and 1 strand K, join 4 scarves with single crochet (sc) (see illustrations) to form one side of poncho (see diagrams for arrangement), as foll: Place 2 scarves with WS tog and, leaving a 10" tail, work Steps 1–5, then rep Steps 3–5 until all 4 scarves are joined. Join 4 other scarves in same way to form other side.

Join sides

Join Edge A of one side to Edge B of other side as shown, working sc as foll: [*sc 1 bound-off st to 1 space between garter ridges] 4 times, skip 1 st, then sc 1 st to 1 space between garter ridges] 5 times; rep from *. Join Edge C to Edge D, as shown, working sc in same way.

Fringe

Cut 384 pieces of yarn for fringe, 16" long (try, if possible, to use equal amounts of every yarn). Attach 4 randomly chosen pieces of yarn at every 2nd st or row around entire lower edge.

Wash garment in water with small amount of hair conditioner or fabric softener. Squeeze out excess moisture. Lay flat to dry. Trim fringe. □

With so many new yarns and so many new knitters, Sally reminds us that knitting, like life, is about learning—success or failure, we always can learn. She is thrilled when a design brings joy as well as enlightenment.

Scarf arrangement

Joining sides

If one novelty yarn makes a project special, then ten will surely push it over the edge. Make eight simple scarves, blending two yarns in each to create a poncho worthy of any occasion.

Row 1 (RS) K1, wrapping yarn 4 times around needle instead of once (ll, 1, see illustrations on page 62); rep from. 2 (WS) With yarn in back, sl st to RH needle, letting extra loops drop (ll, 2) 8 times, then insert LH needle into first 4 sts and pass them over 2nd 4 sts (ll, 3), then sl crossed sts from RH needle to LH needle and p all 8 sts (ll, 4); rep from.

Back

With MC, cast on 104 (112, 120, 128, 136, 144, 152) sts. K 8 rows. With CC, work 2 rows Crossed St Pat. With MC, k 110 (110, 114, 124, 124, 134, 142) rows. With CC, work 2 rows Crossed St Pat. With MC, k 10 rows. With CC, work 2 rows Crossed St Pat. With MC, k 18 rows. Piece measures approx 18 1/2" (18 1/2", 18 1/2", 19 1/2", 20 1/2", 21 1/2") from beg. Shape neck

Next row (RS) K38 (40, 43, 45, 47, 49, 52), join 2nd ball of yarn and bind off 28 (32, 34, 38, 42, 46, 48) sts, k to end. Working both sides at same time, dec 1 st at each neck edge on next row—37 (39, 42, 44, 46, 48, 51) sts each side. Bind off.

Front

Work as for back until 10 MC rows have been worked above 3rd rep of Crossed St Pat. Piece measures approx 17 1/2" (17 1/2", 18, 19, 19, 20, 21") from beg. Shape neck

Next row (RS) K43 (45, 48, 50, 52, 54, 57), join 2nd ball of yarn and bind off 18 (22, 24, 28, 32, 36, 38) sts, k to end. Working both sides at same time, bind off from each neck edge 3 sts once, 2 sts once. Work 1 row even. Dec 1 st at each neck edge on next row—37 (39, 42, 44, 46, 48, 51) sts each side. K 3 rows. Bind off.

Finishing

Block pieces. Sew shoulders from neck edge out 2 (2, 2 1/2, 2 1/2, 3, 3 1/2, 3 1/2)", leaving 4 1/2" (4 1/2, 4 1/2, 5, 5, 5, 5 1/2)" open to shoulder. Place markers on each side seam 6 (6, 6, 7, 7, 8, 8)" down from each shoulder for armholes. Sew side seams from bottom to markers.

Neckband

With RS facing, circular needle and MC, beg at left shoulder and pick up and k78 (86, 90, 98, 106, 114, 122) sts evenly around neck edge. Join and p 1 rnd. Bind off very loosely. □

Many of the older stitch patterns (like those found in Barbara Walker's Treasuries) take on new life with the larger needles and fabulous yarns of today. Heather loves the challenge of this revival.

CROSSED ST PAT

1 Wrap yarn 4 times.

2 On next row, sl 1 to RH needle, letting extra loops drop 8 times.

3 Insert LH needle into first 4 sts and pass them over last 4 sts.

4 Slip crossed sts to LH needle and purl all 8 sts.

Pearcock blues dance across this one-shoulder design. The look is sleek and sexy thanks to the light yarn construction and one-piece design.

How about a scarf that employs sock techniques? We take total advantage of the stocking yarns by knitting a tube and adding afterthought heels every few inches. We chose to stagger them so the scarf would not lie flat, no matter how you wear it.

Ruth can't help but use her historic textile research to produce items that are unusual and eye-catching.

Purse Body

Chain cast on 24 sts. Work Tunisian Pat until 96 rows have been worked and piece measures approx 12" from beg. Leave sts on needle.

Ruffle

Row 1 With RS facing, crochet hook, using yarn at end of last row and working along long edge of purse, pull up a loop in the first st (nearest the needle), ch 2 (counts as first sc), then pull up a loop in next st (between 2 bumps), yo hook and pull through 2 loops on hook (1 sc completed); rep from along edge—48 sc.

2 Ch 4 (counts as first dc), turn, skip 1 sc, dc in next sc, ch 1; rep from, end dc in top of ch-2—48 dc. 3 (inc row) Ch 4, turn, skip first ch, 1dc, ch 1, dc in next dc, [ch 1, dc, ch 1] in next dc; rep from, ending with dc in 3rd ch of previous row. 4 Ch 4, turn, skip first ch, then dc in next dc, ch 1; rep from, end dc in 3rd ch of previous row. Rep rows 3 and 4 once more. Picot row Ch 4, turn, sl st into 4th ch from hook, sc into ch-1 space, sl st into next dc, ch 4; rep from, omitting last ch 4. Do not cut yarn.

Join ruffle

Fold purse in half with right sides tog, sl st edges of ruffle tog to where body of purse starts.

Join body of purse

Cut yarn, leaving a 24" length. Turn purse so that RS is facing out. Place 24 sts from cast-on onto a needle (removing waste yarn) so that needle points are tog. Graft body sts.

FW in bottom

With RS facing and crochet hook, [pull up a loop in st along edge (between 2 bumps)] 3 times, yo hook and pull through 3 loops, pull up 2 more loops then yo and pull through 3 loops; rep from, and when you reach the beginning, keep going with the same process until you spiral down to the last couple of sts, completely closing the bottom and there is 1 loop on hook.

Bottom spiral

Ch 12, work 4 dc in 3rd ch from hook, then work 4 dc in each successive ch down to last ch (keep sts tight). Work 5 dc in last ch, then fasten off, leaving a 3" tail. Bring tail to inside of purse and tie to starting end.

Finishing

Drawstrings MAKE 2

Cut rem cord in half and work finger cord with each cord as foll:

1 Make a slip knot in center of cord. Keep loop large. Slide right index finger into loop and hold sliding end in your right fist. Hold other end in your left fist.

Sometimes all an outfit needs is the perfect bag. This lipstick-red beauty is stable thanks to the soutache cord.

Designed by

3 Put right index finger into loop from back to front, go under strand in your right fist and pull it through loop on left finger. Remove old loop from left finger. Hold knot with right hand and pull left strand to tighten. Repeat Steps 2 and 3.

Pull both ends through loop and tighten. Insert drawstrings into middle fillet row of ruffle with one set of ends coming out one side and the other set of ends coming out the opposite side. Knot tails, leaving enough post knot to unravel tails and add approx 1" of beads to each. String five 25" strands of beads and secure to bottom of purse through the spiral. (7)

NOTES ON WORKING STRIPE PAT

Carry yarn along side of work until you need it again. To avoid long strands, catch the yarn once around the working yarn of another color. Because color D is worked over only one row, the yarn will change sides every time it is used. To avoid having to cut and rejoin yarns, work with a circular needle so you can slide work to whichever end of needle is necessary to pick up correct color. This will mean occasionally working 2 consecutive RS or WS rows.

Notes

1 See School, p. 106, for long-tail cast-on.
2 Sweater is made in separate panels that are sewn tog.
3 Contrast color stripes are worked randomly throughout (2 rows for each stripe).
4 As each panel is worked, sew it to the adjoining panel to make sure that contrast color stripes are lining up "randomly."
5 Use long-tail cast-on throughout.
6 Length measurements given reflect garment length when it's lying flat.

beginner basics

KNITTED-ON CAST-ON

1 Make a slipknot on left needle. With this needle in left hand and other needle in right hand, put needle into slipknot from front. Wrap yarn around right needle.

2 Bring yarn through slipknot with right needle, forming a loop on right needle. Insert left needle under loop and slip loop off right needle: one stitch cast on.

3 Insert right needle into the last stitch placed on left needle. Knit a stitch and place it on left needle. Repeat Step 3 for each additional stitch.

KNIT

1 With yarn in back of work, insert right needle into stitch on left needle from front to back.

2 Bring yarn between needles and over right needle.

3 Bring yarn through stitch with right needle. Slip the stitch off the left needle.

4 One knit stitch completed.

PURL

1 With yarn in front of work, insert right needle into stitch from back to front.

2 Bring yarn over right needle from front to back.

3 Bring yarn through stitch with right needle. Slip the stitch off the left needle.

1 Knit the first 2 stitches; insert left needle into first stitch on right needle and pull it over the second stitch and completely off the needle.

One stitch is now bound off.

2 Knit one more stitch, insert left needle into first stitch on right needle, and pull it over the new stitch and off the needle.

Repeat Step 2. When last loop is on right needle, break yarn and pull tail of yarn through loop to fasten.

Bold lines within the graph represent repeats. These set off a group of stitches that are repeated across a row. You begin at the edge of a row or where the pattern indicates for the required size, work across through to the second line, and then repeat the stitches between the lines as many times as directed, and finish the row.

The sizes of a garment are often labeled with beginning and ending marks on the chart. This avoids having to chart each size separately.

Charts are a graphic representation of knitting; they illustrate every stitch and the relationship between the stitches in rows.

instructions

MAKE 1 (M1) KNIT

1 For a left-slanting increase (M1L), with left needle from front of work, pick up strand between last stitch knitted and next stitch. Knit, twisting the strand by working into the loop at the back of the needle.

2 This is the completed increase.

3 Or, for a right-slanting increase (M1R), with left needle from back of work, pick up strand between last stitch knitted and next stitch. Knit, twisting the strand by working into the loop at the front of the needle.

MAKE 1 (M1) PURL

Left-slanting: Work as for Make 1 Knit, Step 1, except purl, twisting the strand by working into the back loop.

Right-slanting: Work as for Make 1 Knit, Step 3, except purl.

LONG-TAIL CAST-ON

Make a slipknot for the initial stitch, at a distance from the end of the yarn, about 1½" for each stitch to be cast on.

1 Arrange both ends of yarn in left hand as shown. Bring needle under front strand of thumb loop, up over front strand of index loop, catching it...

2...and bringing it under the front of the thumb loop. Slip thumb out of loop, and use it to adjust tension on the new stitch. One stitch cast on.

GRAFTING

Uses An invisible method of joining knitting horizontally, row to row. Useful at shoulders, underarms, and tips of mittens, socks, and hats.

Stockinette graft:

- 1 Arrange stitches on two needles.
- 2 Thread a blunt needle with matching yarn (approximately 1" per stitch).
- 3 Working from right to left, with right sides facing you, begin with Steps 3a and 3b.
- 3a Front needle: yarn through 1st stitch as if to purl, leave stitch on needle.
- 3b Back needle: yarn through 1st stitch as if to knit, leave on.
- 4 Work 4a and 4b across.
- 4a Front needle: through 1st stitch as if to knit, slip off needle; through next as if to purl, leave on needle.
- 4b Back needle: through 1st stitch as if to purl, slip off needle; through next as if to knit, leave on needle.
- 5 Adjust tension to match rest of knitting.

LOOP CAST-ON

Uses To cast on a few stitches for a buttonhole. Loops can slant either to the right or to the left. For right-slanting cast on, work the next row through the back loop.

Left-slanting

Right-slanting

CHAIN CAST-ON

Uses A temporary cast-on.

With crochet hook and contrasting yarn, chain the number of cast-on stitches required, plus a few extra. With needle and main yarn, beginning at end of chain where stitches were just completed, pick up and knit the exact number of cast-on stitches, picking up stitches in loops at back of chain.

1 Slip 2 stitches separately to right needle as if to knit.

2 Knit these 2 stitches together by slipping left needle into them from left to right; 2 stitches become one.

Work same as SSK except:

- 1 Slip 3 stitches.
- 2 Knit these 3 stitches together.

S2KP2, SL2-K1-P2SSO

Uses A centered double decrease.

1 Slip 2 stitches together to right needle as if to knit.

2 Knit next stitch.

3 Pass 2 slipped stitches over knit stitch and off right needle.

4 Completed: 3 stitches become 1; the center stitch is on top.

1 Slip 2 stitches separately to right needle as if to knit.

2 Slip these 2 stitches back onto left needle. Insert right needle through their 'back loops' into the second stitch and then the first.

3 Purl them together.

SK2P, SL1-K2TOG-PSSO

Uses A left-slanting double decrease.

- 1 Slip one stitch knitwise.
- 2 Knit next two stitches together.
- 3 Pass the slipped stitch over the k2tog.

WRAPPING STS ON SHORT ROWS

Uses Each short row adds two rows of knitting across a section of the work. Since the work is turned before completing a row, stitches must be wrapped at the turn to prevent holes. Work a wrap as follows:

Knit side

1 With yarn in back, slip next stitch as if to purl. Bring yarn to front of work and slip stitch back to left needle as shown. Turn work.

2 When you come to the wrap on the following knit row, make it less visible by knitting the wrap together with the stitch it wraps.

Purl side

1 With yarn in front, slip next stitch as if to purl. Bring yarn to back of work and slip stitch back to left needle as shown. Turn work.

2 When you come to the wrap on the following purl row, make it less visible by inserting right needle under wrap as shown, placing the needle under wrap as shown, and purling it together with the stitch it wraps.

Knitter's School

LIFTED INCREASE

If instructions don't specify, use right knit increase. Steps below show completed lifted increase.

For a right increase: purl into right loop of stitch in row below next stitch on left needle (1), then purl stitch on needle (2). For a left increase: purl one stitch, then purl into left loop of stitch in row below last stitch purled (3).

CHAIN STITCH

Make a slipknot to begin. 1 Yarn over hook, draw yarn through loop on hook.

2 First chain made. Repeat Step 1.

SINGLE CROCHET (SC)

Join yarn with slip stitch, chain 1. 1 Insert hook into next stitch to the left.

2 Yarn over and through stitch; 2 loops on hook.

3 Yarn over and through both loops on hook; single crochet completed. Repeat Steps 1-3.

CROCHET CAST-ON

1 Leaving short tail, make slip knot on crochet hook. Hold crochet hook in right hand and knitting needle on top of yarn in left hand. With hook to left of yarn, bring yarn through loop on hook; yarn goes over top of needle forming a stitch.

2 Bring yarn under point of needle and hook yarn through loop forming next stitch; repeat from* to last stitch. Slip loop from hook to needle for last stitch.

3-NEEDLE BIND-OFF

Uses Instead of binding off shoulder stitches and sewing them together.

Place right sides together, back stitches on one needle and front stitches on another. *K2tog (1 from front needle and 1 from back needle). Rep from * once. Pass first stitch on right needle over 2nd stitch. Continue to K2tog (1 front stitch and 1 back stitch) and bind off across.

For a ridge effect on the right side of the work, work as above but with wrong sides together.

ATTACHING FRINGE

1 Insert crochet hook from WS of work through a stitch at edge. Draw center of strands through, forming a loop.

2 Draw ends through loop. One fringe section complete.

BACKWARDS SINGLE CROCHET

1 Work from left to right. 1a Work a slip stitch to begin. 1b Insert hook into next stitch to right.

2 Bring yarn through stitch only. As soon as hook clears the stitch, flip your wrist (and the hook). There are now two loops on the hook, and the just-made loop is to the front of the hook (left of the old loop).

3 Yarn over and through both loops on hook; one backward single crochet completed.

4 Continue working to right, repeating from Step 1b.

INTARSIA

When changing from one color to the next when working intarsia, it is necessary to twist the yarns to prevent holes. Pick up the new color from under the old color, as shown, and continue working.

SLIP ST CROCHET

1 Insert the crochet hook into the fabric, catch the yarn, and pull up a loop.

2 Go into the next stitch of the fabric and draw a new loop through the fabric and the loop on the hook, leaving one loop on the hook. Make each loop a little loose so the edge won't be tight. Repeat this step to the end.

DOUBLE CROCHET (DC)

1 Chain 3 (counts as first double crochet).

2 Yarn over, insert hook into next stitch as shown. Yarn over and through stitch only. There are now 3 loops on hook.

3 Yarn over and through 2 loops on hook.

4 Yarn over and through remaining 2 loops on hook. Repeat Steps 2-4.

1 Cast on 3 or 4 sts.

2 Knit. Do not turn work. Slide stitches to opposite end of needle. Repeat Step 2 until cord is the desired length.

I-CORD

I-cord is a tiny tube of stockinette stitch, made with 2 double-pointed needles.
